Edit Miklos
Birthdate: 31.03.1988
Ski club: MTK
World Championships participation:
2009, 2011, 2013

She is the first Hungarian female alpine ski racer to score World Cup points, a specialist of Downhill and Super-G. Edit was born in Transylvania into an ethnic Hungarian family. She was 6th in Altenmark (2007) and a 5th position in Formigal (2008) at the Junior Alpine Ski World Championships. Edit ranked 18th both in Downhill and Super-G at the FIS Alpine World Ski Championships 2009 in Val d'Isère, and achieved her best result so far in the FIS Alpine Ski World Cup in the same year by finishing 26th in Super-G in St. Moritz. She took part in the Winter Olympics 2010 but was injured during the DH race.

From 2011 she is competing for Hungary but due to the change she lost all her prior FIS points to the FIS Alpine World Ski Championships 2011, where she finished 23rd in Super Combination and 31st in Super-G. She earned the first Hungarian World Cup point in 2012 when she finished 30th in Super Combination in St. Moritz.

In her first Winter Olympics for Hungary in 2014, Miklos finished 16th in the super combined and 7th in the downhill, achieving the country's best result in any Olympic alpine event. She set a new personal best in World Cup competition with a fifth place in a downhill at Crans-Montana in 2014.

She gained her first World Cup podium, also Hungary's first, with a third place finish in downhill at St. Moritz in January 2015.
In the season 2014/2015 she managed to collect 99 World Cup points so far and in the World Championships her aim is to finish between the first 6 in one of the speed disciplines.
